REPRINTED FROM THE FORT McMURRAY BANNER

HERE'S TO THE NORTHERN MAN.

Here's to the hardy northern man who travelled the trackless space. Who carried supplies to the outposts far beyond civilization's edge. Loneliness and heart-breaking labor were his constant and only rewards. Except for the "knowing" that he carried off a tough, hard job well done. As he travelled the rolling river. Or paced the tough bushland trail.

Turn your eyes to the North. O Canadian. For there shall your future unfold. A roadstead to keep have you. A meeting with Destiny. For future decades and centuries. Belongs to the North and to you. Hard, cold, clear though she might be. Yet the North holds riches untold.

Treasure troves rest in her bosom. Awaiting your questing search.

Now the sky pioneers are unravelling. The skein of the tortured North. But only a few years separate Men who travelled by foot, boat or dogteam. From those who travel the air.

There is the same trail-blazing impulse. Responding to the Call of the North. Responding to the Sorealis challenge. As the flares her banners of the north. As she flaunts her flaming sky banner. Her challenge to the Men of the North.

A Playford.

Right-hand picture shows newly installed Lions' president, Stu. Luman as he spoke to the Lions Club immediately after his induction into his new office by former president Alf. Armstrong.

Stu. and the others pictured on page 1 were installed into their offices for the coming season of Lionsism at their regular meeting on Tuesday, June 21st.

Incorporated in the past president, Eric Gillis' report is an account of what the local Lions Club has accomplished in the past year. It is quite an impressive record.

LITTLE FOLK MAKE BIG PICTURES

You're probably sat back from time to time, watching the children in a "cute" situation, and thought what a good photograph that moment would have made. There's no reason why you can't take such pictures at any time. Just keep your camera handy and loaded with film, so you'll be ready for those "candid" everyone will enjoy.

Now that the weather is approaching its summertime heat, you'll have many opportunities to snap outdoor photos of your own family or the wee neighbors. Just keep your eyes open for the "unposed" moments.

You'll soon discover dozens of picture opportunities wherever there are children. A girl talking to her dog, a boy feeding his favorite girl friend, little fingers clutching a baseball bat. The list is endless—the picture possibilities are endless.

Remember that lively, story-telling phone interest most everyone. Sometimes, you may have to wait for the right picture-taking moment. As other times, you can encourage a natural scene by using familiar surroundings and objects. Once the children are absorbed in their play, choose an interesting viewpoint. Shoot, snap-up, concentrating on the youngsters. Move around, keeping one eye on the viewfinder.

Your subjects "freeze" in front of the lens? Then, lay the camera down and wait until everyone has forgotten about it. Later, when your subjects are relaxed and natural once again, the time is ripe for snapping.

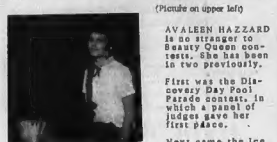

Remember that children grow up quickly. So take pictures of the youngsters today. You'll be glad you did tomorrow.

ARLENE HAZZARD
is no stranger to heavy camera contests, she has been in two previously.

First was the Discovery Day Pool Parade contest, in which a panel of judges gave her first place.

Next came the Ice Carnival Queen Contest. She is now in the running at Klonik's Kamper's Carnival Queen, and a very formidable contestant she will be.

When it comes to "Kooling Up" a Kamper's Kamper "Kool" many legends go into the making of it. These include every girl of course. (See George Gaudet, above and above all else, Camper, since the very reason for the big Kamper's Kamper Festival on July 23 and 24 is a part of the huge White-water Canoe Race, which takes its initial run from Rocky Mountain House on July 23. If the weatherman smiles on these plans for that crucial time we can well expect several thousand people on hand "down on the old campground." To see the latest canoeists come in on the first grueling leg of their race. This is no ordinary canoe race, mind you, this is the LONGEST in the world, and has the LARGEST prize attached to it for the winner. It will take the canoeists well beyond the Kamper's Kamper, and Drayton Valley, the first stop-off will become well-known then. When it comes to "Kooling" you all get your chance to vote for your choice. As well as these four legends have pictured have a picture of Miss Hazzard, the first stop-off will become well-known then. ARLENE LILIE is the girl on the lower left picture. Arlene was declared Discovery Day Queen in the big celebrations in 1965. She appeared in that capacity in the half hour show that CFBN ran on the evening of Drayton Valley's 75th Anniversary of Discovery of the Pembina Field.

ARlene works for the Treasury Branch and is sponsored by them.

SUSAN OSCAR is a truly "local girl" as she was raised in the Drayton Valley and was born before the "Oil Boom" even if she was a young girl at the time and a mighty sweet one too! She is employed with the Drayton Valley and is sponsored by that firm.

SO THERE YOU HAVE THEM: Five of the loveliest young ladies you will find anywhere. You will decide which one will be our 1966 KAMPERS QUEEN by your ballots.
